

- A Read the four invitations and make them more informal by changing the words and phrases in bold for colloquial expressions and abbreviations.

Hi Chris
I'm having a barbeque at my house next Saturday afternoon to celebrate the end of term. Loads of mates from school are coming. It's gonna be awesome! Let me know if you can come.
Paul

Dear Chris
I haven't seen you for a long time! Fancy coming over on Saturday afternoon to catch up? We can just get in a couple of pizzas and relax.
Dave
I also want to say I've just got a great new game for my PS3!

Hi Chris
I've got a spare ticket for the Arsenal-Liverpool game on Saturday. Sam made a mistake - she forgot it's her best friend's birthday! Do you want to come? It'll be a very good game for sure!
Leave me a message on Facebook as soon as possible.
Yvonne

Hi Chris
It's my parents' wedding anniversary this Saturday and they're having a party at our place. How about coming to keep me company? Most of their friends are really dull, so I need someone to have a laugh with! There'll be loads of things to eat and drink.
Please reply
Telephone number 07654 334978
Polly xx

- B Imagine you are Chris. You are very popular and have received these four invitations for the same day! Decide whose invitation you are going to accept and write him / her a note in the box on the left below. Then decide whose invitation you would least like to accept and write him / her a note declining the invitation in the box on the right. Remember to use some colloquial expressions and abbreviations!